I still can't believe that you're gone. I keep telling myself that you're on a trip and will be home soon. It hasn't sunk in yet. I hope you're at peace now and surrounded by all of my loved ones. Antony you've always been a caring, compassionate young man, even as a young boy. I wish more people would have been there to encourage you and lift you up when you were down. You should have known/heard what an impact you had made on others lives and how important you were to them. I'm sorry you didn't hear it enough. I love you, my boy

“ Mollie, you and your family have been in our prayers during yet another difficult time. We will continue to pray that you find strength, peace and comfort in knowing that Antony is with the Lord. You have a lot of friends out there that truly care about you and want you to know that we are here if you ever need anything. Even though we don't see each other very often, the friendship will always be there.

Antony was a good friend of the family since middle school. I remember the him talking about the dorky things like monster hunter, or just video games in general. I remember him making coming over and us play fighting in the back yard in highschool, and how my brother always said, "he's little, but he's strong". I just wish that he didn't need to be so strong for everyone else and to focus inward and be strong for himself. I'm still in disbelief that the news of a young man north of algodones was the same vibrant spirit I grew up around.

“ My boy....my dear sweet boy! I've loved you since the moment I held you. My little "Mexican Jumping Bean, my Tony Bologna" I know....Nana didn't like me to call you Tony. You're were such a "Mama's boy" for so many years. Then one day you told me you couldn't be a "Mama's boy" anymore. That you had to start doing things and making a life for yourself. You've always had such a BIG HEART. How you would show such compassion for those who were hurting. Respect and kindness towards the elderly or people with special needs. You would sit and listen to them talk, give them a hug, or a kiss on the forehead. You've been my ray of sunshine. I don't know what I'm going to do without you. I'm used to seeing you every day. Precious knows you're gone. She misses her buddy. She doesn't have your face to lick or having her daily doses of "Antony HUGS!" I'm going to miss you so very much! My heart is broken. The silence in this house is deafening. I'm used to hearing the voices/sounds of my boys every day. It's always been you, Donald, and me...us three. That was our family. I would always tell you, "That I couldn't wait for you and your brother to spread your wings and fly. To move out and start your own life's. I wanted to see you two living your own separate lives. Being happy and doing well. That I couldn't wait to have time for myself" But this isn't what I had in mind, Antony. This isn't what I wanted! I'm going to miss my boy. I'm sorry I didn't hug you more or give you one last hug. You will always be my boy! I love you! Mom

“ I had the privilege of working with Antony for several Halloween seasons. No one brought more joy to our store than Antony. His smile was contagious and his laughter resonated through walls. I will miss his hugs the most - he always gave the best hugs. Antony touched the hearts of everyone who was lucky enough to know him. I am sad that I won't have the opportunity to laugh with him anymore but I feel blessed to have been among the fortunate few whose life was abundantly enriched by his short existence. Rest in peace my friend. See you on the other side.
