“ When I looked at all of my uncles I have always been reminded of my dad- they all looked a lot alike. So, by this last dear uncle passing another part of my dad has disappeared forever. Uncle Buddy seemed like such a gentle soul- another reminder of my dad. I remember our last accidental meeting when I just happened to be in Virginia at the same time he was a few years ago. We sat and talked for a while at Aunt Joann's house. When it came time to leave I knew it might be the last time I would ever see him, so it was a bittersweet time. I hate that I have never met those who were so very special to him-most of his immediate family, but was glad to have met Charles the one time at our grandfathers' funeral even though I feel certain he does not remember it. My thoughts and prayers are with all of you at this sad time.
