“ Scott was a serious dancer, but he was somewhat of a comedian when he was off the floor.
He could perfectly impersonate John Wayne and James Stewart and these two characters would show up at the funniest times.
He loved Disneyland and every trip to Disneyland included several rides on Pirates of the Caribbean.
He loved his little cockatiel “Chelsea” and spent many years spoiling her rotten.
Scott will be missed!

“ I met my husband in one of Scott's classes, so he influenced my life considerably! He introduced me to the joy of International style dancing and gave my husband and me our foundation in that style.
We hope to continue to build on that foundation for as long as we can still dance. We think of Scott often and with gratitude.

“ I knew Scott about 30 years. Patsy Carper & I met Scott when he taught dance at Jerry & Susan St. Georges school many many years ago. We had some fun, serious & silly times at that studio even though he was very serious about his dancing & who ever he danced with. I was glad I got to see Scott and dance with him again at Enchantment Ballroom. I finally got him not to take the dance so serious and we had a blast dancing together again, laughing and being silly. He will be missed by many and in the dance world as he was such a nice dancer.
